How to apply for a postal or proxy vote

General election May 7

RESIDENTS who can't make it to a polling station or those who will be away on polling day can vote by post or by proxy. To vote by post you need to make your application by 5pm on Tuesday April 21. If you are going to be away you can apply to vote by proxy but applications must be made by 5pm on Tuesday April 28. People who have a medical emergency or are called away on business, or for work reasons after the proxy deadline can apply for an emergency proxy until 5pm on polling day. To get application forms for postal or proxy votes visit www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/elections. Before anyone can vote they must be registered. Polling cards are currently being sent out. If you need to register you can go online to register to vote at www.gov.uk/register-to-vote. To vote in the Parliamentary elections you must be 18 on polling day and be a British, Irish or Commonwealth citizen.

To vote in the West

Greenwich by-election you must be a British, Commonwealth or EU citizen. The deadline for registration is Monday April 20 but it's important to register as early as possible so that there's enough time for identity checks.

When you apply you will need your National Insurance number to hand if you have one. We will then verify your identity using that number, your date of birth and your name. If you have not been given a national insurance number or don't have one for some other reason, just state that on the application and we will write to you to explain how you can prove your identity using other documents.

Electoral registration applications are made individually. Each resident must complete their own application and agree to the statement of truth during the application. The council is helping residents get registered to vote this spring and is writing to all residents with information about the registration process, including notification of who is registered at your address.

Reinstate full route of 53 bus and compensate passengers

MANY readers of Greenwich Time will be regular users of the 53 bus route from Plumstead Common to Central London. Since January, we have all been inconvenienced by the termination of the route at Lambeth North due to road works at Westminster Bridge. The works have finished but the full route has not been restored. According to TFL, there is no intention of doing so until June. However, as we now have to use two buses (and there is no thru-ticketing on London buses) this is costing regular users an additional £15 a week. Needless to say Tfl are offering no compensation for this. Every other bus route has been restored apart from the 53. If you feel this is unfair why not drop Tfl a line at

Paul Wheeler, Blackheath Hill

● Mike Weston, Tfl's director of buses, said: "Apologies to passengers for any disruption caused. The curtailment of the daytime service on route 53 at County Hall was originally introduced to mitigate for work taking place in Bridge Street, Westminster. Although this work has now been completed, modification of the junction at Elephant and Castle will impact the 53 and other bus services that run through this area. We are therefore proposing that route 53 will continue to terminate at County Hall in the short term until the work allows us to restore the service though to Whitehall. This will ensure that we can provide a more reliable service for the majority of passengers using route 53 between Plumstead and County Hall. We have received feedback from some passengers who are incurring additional costs as a result of the curtailment and we are looking to address this. Anyone wishing to contact us about this issue can do so by emailing customerservices@tfl.gov.uk or calling 0343 222 1234.

by Ronnie Woods

BARBER Alfred Woodhead went behind enemy lines to shave and trim soldiers' hair in the First World War. Now, a hundred years later, the family business is still snipping away in Well Hall Road, Eltham. The business celebrated its centenary with a party for customers and staff, hosted by the third generation of the Woodhead family. It is now run by his granddaughter Jane Bennett, who said: "It went really well, with more than 50 people turning up to help us celebrate and have a slice of cake." Alfred, his wife Edith and their three children moved from Hoo in Kent to Well Hall Road, turning an old jewellery store opposite a tram stop into a men's barbers. While serving in the First World War, Alfred cut and shaved the soldiers and officers' hair on duty and even behind the enemy lines. While he was away fighting, the shop back home stayed open, run by Edith, who also served teas, ice cream, cigarettes and cigars. After his return from the war, Alfred opened a ladies' hair salon at the back of the store, opposite the men's. This meant hiring new staff with men earning £2 and 7 shillings a week, while the women were paid 15 shillings and a 6 pence - £2.35 for men and 77.5p for women in today's money. The children were taught to become hairdressers, and when they were older and married they bought their own shops in Newbury, Northampton and Dartford. Fourth child Beryl took over the Eltham shop in 1946 after the Second World War. Beryl's daughter Jane was five when her grandfather Alfred passed away in 1958, aged 80, but she remembers him well. She said: "He played the mandolin and used to play for me and I used to dance and sing with him. He used to take me out to our beach hut in Bexhill, so I have all these memories from when I used to be with him." Beryl retired in 1969 to look after Edith, leaving the store in the hands of their manageress Lesley. Beryl came back to the store in 1972 with Jane now working in the store until 1975 and has run the store ever since. "It's a joy to have this business and have such lovely staff and wonderful customers," said Jane. "One of our staff members has been working here for 32 years and one of our customers has been coming to us for 70 years. And we plan to keep it that way." A lot has changed over the last 100 years. "But the store has definitely moved with the times," said Jane. "I have a good team of youngsters interested in hairdressing and it is nice to be moving forward." Although she likes to keep the store in the family, Jane is happy to hire part-time staff and loves to train new apprentices. And she has no plans to retire just yet. She said: "At the party, I thanked everybody who had come, all our wonderful customers and the girls for supporting me and being there for me. With all the customers being so nice and their continued custom, it's like having them as part of the family."

Drug duo caught officers from the VOCU executed a warrant at an address in Lansdowne Lane after intelligence reports which suggested that drugs were being used and sold from one of the properties on the road.

When officers arrived, they found Kossi-Lessa sitting in a car parked on his drive and smoking cannabis.

At the address, they found a large amount of white and brown powder on the living room table, together with scales and small pieces of cling film, suggesting that drugs were being prepared and packed to be sold on the streets.

Officers also seized £6,200 found at the scene.

A five-year-old boy was found on the premises. He was left unsupervised inside the property with easy access to the tables covered in drugs.

Kossi-Lessa was arrested on suspicion of possession with intent to supply class A drugs and cruelty to a child.

A 30-year-old woman was arrested at the scene on suspicion of cruelty to a child and possession with intent to supply.

Whilst officers were searching the property, Ngonga-Matuvangua visited the address; he was immediately searched and found in possession of a large quantity of small parcels of brown powder, believed at this stage to have been class A drugs.

Ngonga-Matuvangua was also arrested for possession with intent to supply.

They both pleaded guilty to conspiracy to supply class A drugs on 17 February 2015.

The 30-year-old woman arrested at the scene for possession with intent to supply and cruelty to a child was informed that no further action will be taken against her.

Detective Chief Inspector Mike Balcombe, in charge of the VOCU, said: "Dedicated police officers from the VOCU were able to disrupt Kossi-Lessa and Ngonga-Matuvangua's activities, making a dent in their profit. We will continue to pursue any leads or intelligence we receive related to drug dealing and will ensure that those responsible are brought before a court."

JAILED: Kossi-Lessa was sentenced to three years in prison

Design team appointed for £80m regeneration of Thamesmead

A design team has been signed up to handle a huge £80 million regeneration at Thamesmead. It will lead to nearly 3,000 new homes – both for sale and for rent – and thousands of new jobs for local people. Two major new housing zones in Thamesmead have been agreed by the Mayor of London, following successful bids by the royal borough and neighbouring Bexley. The councils have been working in partnership with the Peabody Trust, the housing association which manages large parts of Thamesmead. Peabody has appointed Proctor and Matthews Architects to be project leader and design team co-ordinators to develop plans for the regeneration. This will lead to thousands of new homes and jobs over the next ten years – making this one of the largest regeneration projects in the capital. Jeremy Stibbe, Peabody's director of development and sales, said: "Proctor and Matthews bring a wealth of experience in housing-led regeneration, and we look forward to working with them to deliver beautiful homes, fantastic public realm and shared spaces, and a thriving local economy in Thamesmead. An outline planning application for around 500 homes at Southmere Village is due to be submitted later this year for the first stage of the development.

£8,200 fine for illegal tobacco

Over 7,000 cigarettes seized in joint operation

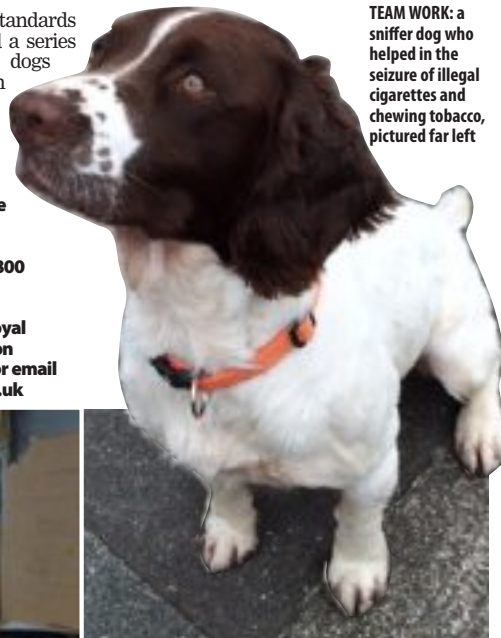

THE ROYAL borough and the Met Police have won legal action against a local trader who had been found in possession of a large amount of illegal tobacco.

In a hearing at Bromley Magistrates' Court last month (March 25) Ms Sultana Khan was fined £8,200 after pleading guilty to seven charges on behalf of herself and her company, Mini Payless Limited.

The case follows the seizure of a total of 7,220 illegal cigarettes and 84 packs of illegal chewing tobacco from Ms Khan's business when a royal borough's trading standards team, Met officers and HMRC held a series of joint inspections using sniffer dogs last year. They were found hidden in a locked room under a bed and failed to meet a series of standards required by law, including not being marked a sufficient 'health warning' and carrying increased risk of fire.

● Anyone who suspects the illegal sale of tobacco or alcohol can call the royal borough's trading standards team on 020 8921 8223 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111, or email tradingstandards@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Unique service to remember fallen soldiers

ELTHAM'S historic Gallipoli Chapel at Holy Trinity Church will be the setting for a unique service on Saturday, April 25. The day marks the 100th anniversary of the First World War landings at Gallipoli, the defining campaign of 1915 that centred on a narrow finger of land in Turkey known as the Gallipoli Peninsula. In total, 143,750 allied soldiers died and at least 85,000 Turkish soldiers lost their lives.

The chapel, in Southend Crescent, is the only one of its kind in the world to be dedicated to the campaign. It has been used for an annual Gallipoli memorial service every year since 1921, and a fund was launched by the congregation to refurbish it for the campaign's centenary this year.

The service will start at 2pm, and will be attended by Army Reserve Units who have direct links with the British Army's 29th Division which fought at Gallipoli. Sea Cadets, Army Cadets, and the Air Cadets from South East London will also be there.

A Ministry of Defence grant, provided through the Armed Forces Community Covenant scheme, has been awarded to Holy Trinity to provide an interactive display so people can learn more about the Gallipoli campaign. This will be available to visitors later this year.

Formula 1 for life in the fast lane

Greenwich UTC students prepare their sustainable vehicle

ENGINEERING students from Greenwich UTC are getting a taste of life as Lewis Hamilton in a national competition

The students from Greenwich University Technical College are taking part in an exciting national competition to design, build and race a 'green' car.

It's being organised by the Greenpower Education Trust, which promotes sustainable engineering.

The year 12 and 13 students are building two cars which will be put to the test in 60-minute races at some of the country's most famous race tracks. Their finished model will compete against 200 schools in regional heats across the country, with the top three qualifiers taking part in an international final in October

The students are currently preparing for their first test race later this month and need to organise everything from the vehicle assembly to finding sponsors. Apart from the technical skills needed, the project helps them develop teamwork and project management skills.

The rules say all the teams who enter have to use the same motor and two 12 volt batteries per race. During the race at least three team members must drive the car for a minimum of 15 minutes, and up to six further members can act as pit crew.

Jay Wright, head of engineering at the UTC, said: "We are delighted to be part of the project because it enables students, both boys and girls, to get excited about engaging in engineering, and gives them the chance to see how the principles apply in the real world. It also raises important moral and social issues about the environment and our responsibility to preserve the resources that we have."

Top policewoman 'arrested' for robbery

Top cop joins cadet training exercise

by Dick Townsend-Smith

THE highest-ranking female police officer in the country was 'arrested' at Abbey Wood for trying to steal a mobile phone.

But it was simply a training exercise for the Greenwich Police Cadets at their weekly meeting at St Paul's Academy in Finchale Road.

Special guest for the evening was Assistant Commissioner Helen King, who is third in command in the Met, working to the Commissioner, Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe.

She sportingly agreed to act the part of a street robber so the cadets could practise the arrest and search skills they had been taught. The event was organised by PC Andy Harris, who is the borough's Police Cadet Co-ordinator, and who played the hapless robbery victim.

He said: "The junior cadets arrested her following the laid-down police procedures they had learned. She asked them awkward questions about her rights and the police's powers, and she was then searched and the mobile discovered."

"She then gave them a talk about her career, announced awards and promotions, watched the cadets perform drills, and listened to a rendition from the Corps of Drums. Everyone said it was a good evening."

AC King told GT: "The Volunteer Police Cadets is an outstanding example of young people making London safer. Alongside their dedicated team of leaders, the cadets get involved in every aspect of policing, from crime prevention activities to vital roles at public events such as Trooping the Colour."

"The cadets are an integral part of the Met extended police family and we are extremely proud of the work they do all across London. It is always a privilege to meet with the cadets and to experience first-hand the passion and determination of our young people, many of whom we hope will be the future of policing in the capital."

The Greenwich unit has 100 cadets, with junior cadets aged 10-12, and volunteer police cadets aged 13-18. After this they can become a special constable or an adult volunteer.

● For more details, email Pc Harris at andrew.harris@met.police.uk

● The cadets meet at St Paul's Academy once a week, 5.30pm to 6.30pm for juniors, then 7pm to 9.30pm for volunteer police cadets. The drum corps practises on Tuesday nights.

LAS 'Shocking' campaign to save lives

THE London Ambulance Service is running a campaign to make an extra 1,000 life-saving heart defibrillators available in the capital. The equipment shocks the heart into restarting after a heart attack. Called 'Shockingly Easy', the campaign's aim is to have a defibrillator available in public places and in businesses.

Richard Hunt, Chairman of the London Ambulance Service, said: "There are around 10,000 cardiac arrests in the capital every year. When you have a cardiac arrest your heart stops, blood is no longer being pumped around the body and you are clinically dead."

"Around a third of people survive an out-of-hospital cardiac arrest but, where there is a defibrillator and someone trained to use it, the chance of survival can increase to 80 per cent."

● For more information on how to get a defibrillator for your organisation call the Shockingly Easy campaign on 020 7783 2366 or visit www.londonambulance.nhs.uk/shockinglyeasy

Job club working well

THAMESMEAD residents are receiving more training and employment support than ever before thanks to a new job club run by Trust Thamesmead.

The Thamesmead Job Club offers residents access to computers to carry out job searches and a number of workshops to aid job searching. Those attending can get help with cover letters, CVs and job application forms, interview techniques, Universal Jobmatch and benefits advice.

Trust Thamesmead is part of housing provider the Peabody Group and runs Thamesmead Job Club in partnership with the London Borough of Bexley.

The Peabody Group is committed to supporting 1000 unemployed Londoners every year to secure employment and Trust Thamesmead's Building Futures department is also in place alongside the Job Club to help local people into work. Building Futures offers free one-to-one employment and training support and in the last year, over 450 new clients have signed-up for one-to-one support. Many have benefitted from free training and support into work.

Peabody's Chief Executive, Stephen Howlett said: "More than 150 Thamesmead residents

have already enrolled with Thamesmead Job Club, reaffirming why we launched it - to help support even more Thamesmead residents with their search for work. Third run for hospice mini marathon

A HOSPICE mini marathon is running for a third year thanks to a local sponsor.

The marathon hosted by the Greenwich and Bexley Community Hospice returns for a third year thanks to their sponsors the John Payne Estate Agents.

The 2.62 mile marathon for 5 to 16 year olds around Royal Greenwich Park on Sunday 19th April will "raise much-needed funds and increase awareness of Greenwich & Bexley Community Hospice, a vital part of the community" says Doug Norris, John Payne Estate Agents Manager. Greenwich & Bexley Community Hospice is a registered charity that provides free specialist end of life care to approximately 2,500 adults with life-limiting illnesses living in the London Boroughs of Greenwich and Bexley each year.

John Payne staff will be among more than 50 Hospice volunteers helping to make the event a success such as handing out water, medals and exclusive goody bags.

"So far over 500 children have signed up making it one of our biggest fundraising events of the year" says Sarah O'Halloran, Fundraising Manager at Greenwich & Bexley Community Hospice.

"We are hoping to sign up 1,000 mini marathon runners and raise over £40,000; enough to enable our doctors and nurses to provide specialist care to our patients for one whole week."

A taste for healthy

MORE and more businesses and organisations have signed up to the Good Food in Greenwich Charter. They have vowed to use, sell, grow or cook only environmentally-friendly and healthy produce. Signatories include the University of Greenwich, Woolwich Community Centre, Greenwich Student Union, Greenwich Leisure Limited (GLL), and private firms of all types and sizes.

Meanwhile, dozens more people have pledged to change their eating habits for the better. The campaign, launched by the Greenwich Co-operative Development Agency, aims to put the borough on the map for healthy and locally-produced food.

A cut above the rest

TRADITIONAL butchers Drings on Royal Hill, Greenwich, says the borough's Good Food initiative is helping customers to choose a cut above the rest.

Owner Mike Jones said: "This scheme is about bigging up good food in Greenwich, and keeping things local. We've got some really good food producers in the borough, and there are lots of jobs in the local food industry."

"People are saying it's a good thing. It's asking people to really care about what they are buying, and not just basing it on price. We have been here 40 years and we have built up a strong reputation. In our shop, people on a budget can buy just one lamb chop, and we will cut it for them fresh. This is very different from supermarkets, where you have to buy a packet. We have people coming in to buy two sausages, a rasher of bacon and a duck egg to make their breakfast.

"This means they don't have to waste anything, or leave food in the fridge to go off. Good Food in Greenwich is about keeping it local, which is different from supermarkets' philosophy."

"We make all our own sausages and bacon, and we were launching new products, so we were interested in getting involved. We went into Charlton Manor School to show them how to make sausages, because it's important for children to know where sausages come from, rather than thinking it's a supermarket packet."

Drings says: "We sell a wide range of high quality meat, poultry and game. Our traditionally bred Longhorn, Galloway and Red Poll beef is all dry aged on the premises. We only use free range pork from Blythburgh in Suffolk, and our lambs come from the West Country."

"All our award-winning sausages, burgers, faggots and meatballs are hand-made every week to our own recipes."

"We invest time in finding great farms to supply us and take great care in maturing and then butchering the meat. Whatever the season we have whatever you need to create great meals."

A HEALTHY eating cookery course led to a change in lifestyle and career for high-flyer Lara Omoloja.

Despite a high powered career in corporate marketing Lara yearned for a healthier and more stress-free lifestyle and looked to make the change from within by concentrating on what she ate. Lara undertook a healthy eating cookery course and with the influence of her mum who works as a nutritionist, her interest developed.

She now runs the Greenwich Pantry a speciality food service which hosts cookery classes for all sorts of organisations as well as selling quality food produce online.

Launched in 2010, the firm also runs a catering and delivery service as well as a quarterly pop up shops where shoppers can buy kitchen accessories and fairtrade, gourmet and organic produce around the seasonal themes.

"One of the biggest gripes we hear is that healthy eating is boring but it isn't, it obviously depends on your lifestyle, budget and access to produce in the local area," she explained.

The founder of the Greenwich Pantry was keen to sign up to the Good Food in Greenwich pledge as its tenets lie at the heart of her company and all it stands for.

"When we started we were vanguards of organic and speciality foods in the locale. We research our suppliers, their ethics, what values they have and what they put in their food. We are quite forthright about how we choose our suppliers which has an impact on the end user.

"We signed up to the pledge so that our customers can be assured that we do what we say – that we provide good quality fresh food for Greenwich," she added.

And she urged other local food producers to consider signing up too: "It's an easy process but it is a commitment - you do it because you care about what you are doing and believe it will have an impact."

The Greenwich Pantry is running a Spring pop up shop where visitors can see, taste and buy colourful Spring produce, pantry food and kitchen equipment. It runs from April 30 to May 2 at The Gallery, Greenwich West.

SIGNING UP: food producers sign up to the Good Food in Greenwich Charter at the launch event in January

The art form of pasta production

CASA GRANDE - the UK's only organic artisan dyed pasta manufacturer celebrates its second anniversary this month.

And the Greenwich-based company is proud to be among the first to sign the Good Food in Greenwich Charter.

It's run by husband and wife team Derek and Tatiana Curtis who started cooking in 2013.

Tatiana, production director for the firm explained: "We started cooking in the household kitchen and table, but it got to a point where we were sleeping in paperwork so we decided to move house and come to Greenwich, where we have been selling at markets around the local area ever since."

The duo helped at the launch event for the Good Food in Greenwich Charter in January and have been firm and public supporters of the pledge. Tatiana explained: "It's good as it connects us with a network of local food businesses and is entirely what our company stands for - all our ingredients are locally sourced, as close to our kitchens in Greenwich as possible."

She added: "Our organic pasta is unique. Our artisan process includes traditional methods and slow drying makes the pasta porous so it really absorbs the flavours of the sauces."

Their certification for being the only organic artisan dried pasta manufacturer in the UK was awarded by the Soil Association and is a testament to their originality and dedication to the pledge. Tatiana stresses: "Over 75% of pasta is imported into the UK and we wish to change that. We sell at markets and events all around the Greenwich area and now have an online store, including shipping via Amazon."

SHOWHOME: views of new and refurbished areas inside and outside, below, visitors step back in time to enjoy a cocktail party typical of those hosted by the Courtaulds

SCENE

AFTER a £1.7m makeover, Eltham Palace reopened to the public last week with five new rooms added to the tour of the palace and gardens.

Among the rooms are a luxury wartime bunker, basement billiards room, a 1930s travel map-room revealed under decades of paint and wallpaper, bedrooms and a walk-in wardrobe reminiscent of the one owned by the former millionaire owners Stephen and Virginia Courtauld.

The £1.7million makeover by English Heritage will allow visitors to explore more of the palace that combines 1930s Art Deco with medieval and Tudor design and history. Visitors can step back in time to one of the many legendary cocktail parties hosted by the Courtaulds. There's also a fully interactive children's tour of the grounds that tells the story of the animals that once inhabited the grounds such as Mah-Jongg, the household's pet lemur who even had his own personal, heated bedroom.

English Heritage's senior curator at Eltham Palace Laura Houlliston said: "It is one of the finest examples of Art Deco architecture and design surviving in Britain today. It was also a decadent, fun place to visit. We continue that tradition by not just inviting people into the palace as a museum but inviting them as a guest of the Courtaulds' home and have them experience the palace as if they were staying the weekend."

2. The general effect of the Order would be to authorise the stopping up of:
 - (a) four rectangular areas of highway, three with tapered ends, adjacent to carriageway, on the east side of Peartree Way, with maximum dimensions of 33.35 metres by 1.55 metres, 26.68 metres by 1.55 metres, 35.50 metres by 1.45 metres and 26.15 metres by 1.55 metres respectively (including any tapered ends);
 - (b) an irregular shaped area of highway, adjacent to carriageway, on the east side of Peartree Way and the north side of Horn Link Way (west to east arm), at the junction of those two roads, with maximum dimensions of 9.58 metres by 5.20 metres; and
 - (c) a triangular area of highway, adjacent to carriageway, on the west side of Horn Link Way (north to south arm), with a hypotenuse length of 11.25 metres, so as to enable the development described in the Schedule to this Notice to take place. The term "stopping-up" means that these areas of highway would cease to be public highway.
3. If the Order is made, the stopping-up would only be authorised in order to enable the development described in the Schedule to this Notice to be carried out in accordance with the planning permission granted to Greenwich Millenium Village Ltd on 5th December 2013. The planning application references are 13/0654/V and 13/0654/V(1) and the planning permission decision reference is 13/00022/V.
4. A copy of the proposed Order and the relevant plans are available for inspection by any person, free of charge, during normal office hours until the expiry of three normal office hours on 3rd May 2015 at the Directorate of Regeneration, Enterprise & Skills, Strategic Transportation, Royal Borough of Greenwich, The Woolwich Centre, 35 Wellington Street, SE18 6HQ. These documents may be obtained free of charge on written application to the Council at the Royal Borough of Greenwich, PO Box 485, Kemp House, 152-160 City Road, London, EC1V 3NL, quoting reference: PCL/SUO/CWO/1000022198.
5. Any person who wishes to object to the making of the proposed Order should send a statement in writing by 20th April 2015, specifying the grounds on which any objection is made, to the Council at the following address: the Royal Borough of Greenwich, PO Box 485, Kemp House, 152-160 City Road, London, EC1V 3NL, quoting reference: PCL/SUO/CWO/1000022198.
6. Persons objecting to the proposed Order should be aware that in view of the Local Government (Access to Information) Act 1985, this Council would be legally obliged to make any comments received in response to this notice, open to public inspection.

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.

Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 15 April 2015 at midday. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 12 April 2015.

MOVES ACROSS LONDON

The housingmoves scheme is run by the Greater London Authority and is aimed at social housing tenants who want to move from one part of London to another.

Priority is given to people who:

- have more bedrooms than they currently need
- want to move to be closer to employment or higher education
- need to provide care for family members or friends.

Tenants must have a clear rent account and no on-going record of anti-social behaviour.

Royal borough tenants can register on the scheme and bid for council or housing association property in other parts of London. To register your interest please visit:

www.housingmoves.org

Choice hotline 020 8921 4340

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

IMPORTANT POLICY INFORMATION FOR THOSE AWARDED PRIORITY

When a priority is awarded, you will receive one offer of accommodation.

The following rules are used to allocate properties to applicants in Bands A, B and C, to make sure the Council makes best use of housing stock to meet needs.

- Two children (whatever gender) under 10 years old can share a bedroom
- Two children (same gender) under 16 years old can share a bedroom
- Two children of opposite gender where at least one is 10 years old or over need a bedroom each
- Each person over 16 years old needs their own bedroom
- A couple and lone parents need one bedroom
- Expected babies are counted as a person from the six month of pregnancy
- Band C applicants - Houses are allocated to a household with children (aged 15 or under)

Only RBG tenants who currently occupy houses in bands A and B, will be considered for rehousing to another house. All other priority applicants will be considered for flats or maisonettes.

Note: There are separate Allocations Policies for applicants with priority from regeneration areas.

Like for Like Moves

Council tenants housed through priority Bands A & B, are generally offered a similar type of property to that they currently occupy, of the size they require. This is because rehousing is being offered to meet safety or other needs, rather than to provide more desirable housing. Tenants, who want to move to improve the quality of their accommodation, must do so through Band C, where applicants are housed in date order.

For full details on our policies, please see the Allocations Scheme which is available on the Royal Borough of Greenwich website

Tough talking

Pupils speak out in debating challenge

by Ronnie Woods

YOUNGSTERS at Royal Greenwich schools certainly know how to speak up for themselves.

Pupils gave their views on a range of issues and made their voices heard when they took part in the Greenwich regional final of the Jack Petchy 'Speak Out Challenge'.

The event was hosted by St Paul's Academy in Abbey Wood on March 25 with 50 students taking part in the competition before over 130 guests.

The challenge is the world's largest youth speaking event, involving 18,000 year 10 pupils in 550 schools in London and Essex. It's held in partnership with the Speakers Trust, a UK-wide charity providing training in confident communication and public speaking.

Speakers had between two and three minutes each to deliver a speech on any topic of their choosing with subjects covering issues such as colourism, inequality, identity, time and domestic violence. They spoke before a panel of judges including last year's champion who ranked them on content, structure and delivery. First place went to Chelsea Sampson from St Ursula's Convent School, second place to Ben Mountain from Thomas Tallis School and Tegh Panesar from Woolwich Polytechnic School.

Isabella, 15, who took part in the competition said: "The whole time I was trying to deal with my anxiety but afterwards there was a standing ovation and I couldn't stop smiling. Even now, I remember it and I can't help but smile. Taking part has shown me an unknown confidence I didn't know I had. And it's given me skills I can use in life."

English teacher at St Paul's Chima Amechi who helped organize the event said: "The students were fantastic and the standard of the speakers was better than last year. The winner could have been anyone, it was that close."

Thumbs-up for tidying up

LOCAL people who give up their spare time to keep the royal borough looking clean and tidy were given a big 'thank you' at a reception in Woolwich Town Hall last month.

The Environmental Champions reception is held annually to acknowledge the work of residents' associations, Friends of Parks groups, environmental volunteers and individuals and this year was presented by Neeta Kanagaratnam from the organisation Clean Up UK.

The Environmental Champions undertake a wide range of tasks as part of their work, from litter-picking and removal of graffiti, to dealing with fly-tipping and repairs in parks and open spaces.

In the last year the royal borough's Environment Champions participated in 20 community clean ups and assisted at the Great Get Together and reported 1,670 environmental issues including dog fouling, graffiti and fly tipping.

A Junior Environment Champions scheme was also launched last November with the aim of educating children about environmental matters, encouraging greater responsibility for keeping their local area tidy. Plumcroft Primary school in Plumstead was the first school to join the scheme.

both won golds in the sportshall (indoor) male athletics.

The two-day event at the National Sports Centre, Crystal Palace included Sportshall Athletics, Badminton, Netball, Football, Boccia, Hockey, Inclusive Zone Basketball and Water Polo with 2,500 young people from across London competing from March 24-25.

The event is seen as the pinnacle of the school sporting season, with over 50,000 school children competing.

"I am happy for the children because of the work they've put in," Jeff Springer, team manager of Thomas Tallis, told Greenwich Time.

He also paid tribute to the event: "It's great because it just gives kids the opportunity to do sport and sport is really important. It keeps them fit, it's good for their wellbeing, improves self esteem and it's just important for all the kids to do something they enjoy."

The children are wearing blue t-shirts and dark shorts, and the mascot is a large, brown, furry creature wearing a red t-shirt. They are standing in front of a backdrop that reads 'Balfour Beatty' and 'London Youth Games'.
